Abundance

How We Build a Better Future

Ezra Klein and Derek Thompson

Rethinking liberal answers to society's biggest challenges by embracing visionary action

The real threat to liberal democracy isn't autocrats – it's the lack of effective action by progressives. This essential corrective reveals the forces that have shaped recent liberal politics, in which scarcity and preservation drive the agenda and we no longer deliver on big ideas.

In a story repeated across the Western world, decades of US policy slashing immigration, off-shoring manufacture, preventing housebuilding and stalling ambitious projects have led to a shortage of workers, homes and climate-change solutions. Meeting the greatest challenges of our time will require progressives to develop the vision, ability and willingness to enact transformative strategies. Here, veteran journalists Klein and Thompson lay out the barriers, and show how we can take consequential action to build a future of abundance.

Native Nations

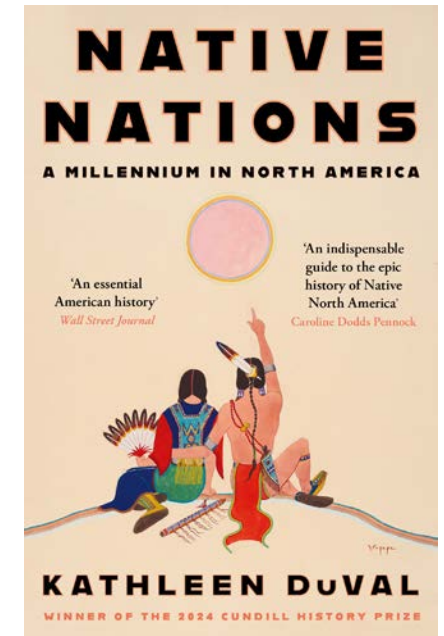

A Millennium in North America

Kathleen DuVal

Winner of the 2024 Cundill History Prize: a radical new history of Indigenous America

For centuries, Europeans assumed that Indigenous Americans lacked the sophistication to build cities and establish hierarchies. For over a millennium, before and after the arrival of white colonialists, however, native nations had been adapting to changing climates, founding and abandoning urban centres and forging complex, democratic societies.

In this magisterial new history of North America, Kathleen DuVal puts Indigenous people back at the heart of the story. From the splendour of ancient cities like Cahokia and Moundville to the careful diplomacy of native leaders in the face of colonial expansion, Native Nations reveals the diversity of Indigenous civilisation and shows how a 1,000-year legacy still shapes America today, in struggles over sovereignty, climate and Indigenous rights.

Kathleen DuVal is a professor in the History Department at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. She is the author of Independence Lost and The Native Ground, and has written for The New York Times, Chicago Tribune and Wall Street Journal. Native Nations won the 2024 Cundill History Prize.

PROFILE BOOKS

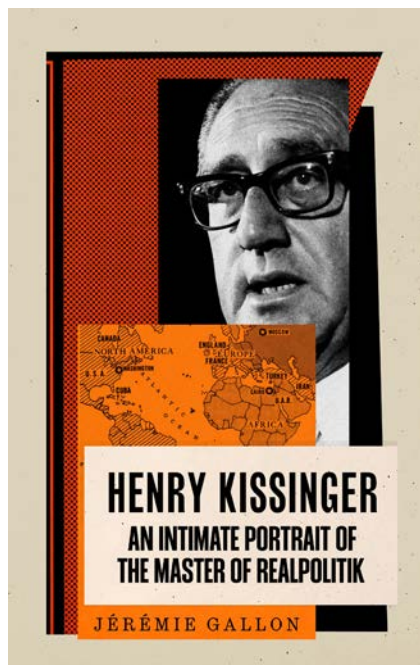

Henry Kissinger

An Intimate Portrait of the Master of Realpolitik

Jérémie Gallon

Translated by Roland Glasser

The prize-winning new biography of the master of American diplomacy

The greatest diplomat of the twentieth century for some, a highly controversial figure for others, Henry Kissinger leaves no one indifferent. In this intimate portrait, Jérémie Gallon examines the biography of Kissinger through a variety of different themes, showing how the young refugee from Hitler's Germany transformed himself into the man who made and unmade regimes and redrew the power balances of the world.

Making no secret of Kissinger's faults and the accusations against him, Gallon explores the ideas, moments and people that shaped his legacy, including his Jewishness, approach to foreign affairs, love of football, years at Harvard, and close relationships with key players such as Richard Nixon, Anwar Sadat, Lee Kuan Yew and Zhou Enlai – as well as the author's extraordinary encounter with Kissinger at his home in Connecticut ten days after Russia's 2022 invasion of Ukraine.

Moveable Feasts

Paris in Twenty Meals

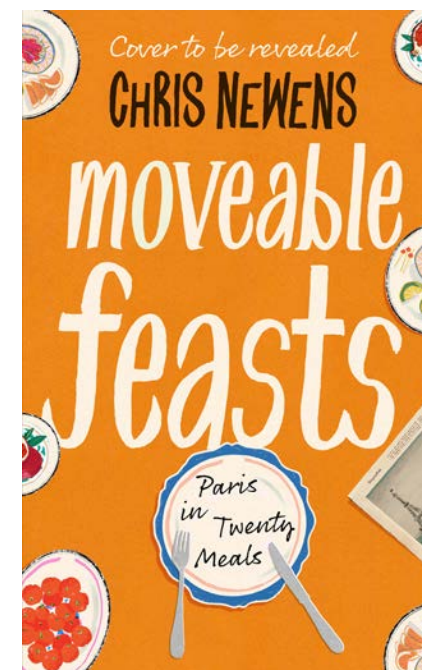

Chris Newens

An award-winning food writer's gastronomic adventure around Paris and its melting pot of cuisines

Paris has a claim to be the centre of European gastronomy – but beyond its zinc-topped tables and trademark terrasses, what can its cuisine tell us about the city? Chris Newens, long-time resident of the 19th, takes us on a journey around Paris's twenty spiralling arrondissements, seeking out, sampling and attempting to recreate a dish that represents each as it is today.

Hemingway wrote that 'wherever you go for the rest of your life it stays with you, for Paris is a moveable feast'. From Congolese catfish in the 18th to the charcuterie served at the libertine nightclubs of the 9th to the wildly popular falafels of the 4th, Newens lifts the lid on the city's irresistible, ever-changing food culture.

Chris Newens is a writer from south-west London who grew up around food service. After studying Anthropology at the London School of Economics, he moved to Paris, where he has lived for over a decade. He won the 2024 Jane Grigson Trust Award for new food writers for Moveable Feasts.

To the Sea by Train

The Golden Age of Railway Travel

Andrew Martin

A delightfully entertaining history of the seaside getaway from Britain's 'Bard of the Buffer'

Throughout the twentieth century, the seaside service posters of Britain's railways promised fresh air and frivolity to millions of urban dwellers with the phrase: 'To the sea by train'. A staple of modern British life, the seaside getaway was intertwined with the train, in whose compartments holidaymakers were shunted from smog-choked cities to sandy coves.

With his signature wit and anecdotal style, Andrew Martin captures an era defined by its railways: from the development of Brighton and Scarborough into pleasure resorts, and the introduction of bank holidays and two-day weekends, to the advent of cheap flights and the British coast's subsequent decline. Humorous and evocative, To the Sea by Train takes a charming tour through Britain's most beloved pastime.

Think Like a Mathematician

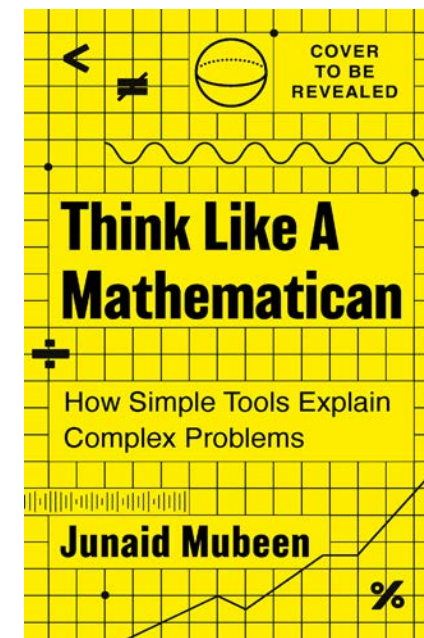

How Simple Tools Explain Complex Problems

Junaid Mubeen

How to develop the thinking tools and techniques to understand the maths of modern life

To many of us, so-called 'pure' mathematics is downright baffling. The first question in classrooms is often: when will I use this? Yet, when you start to think like a mathematician, modern life can suddenly make a lot more sense.

In Think Like a Mathematician, Junaid Mubeen shows how using abstract mathematical concepts as thinking tools can enrich our everyday lives – from prime numbers to fractals and the aspects of calculus. Whether you're a mathematician or self-proclaimed mathophobe, you'll find all of these ideas easy to grasp and rewarding to understand – some may even reshape the way you see the world.

Junaid Mubeen is a mathematician turned educator. He holds a DPhil in Mathematics from Oxford and a Master's in Education from Harvard, where he was a Kennedy Scholar. He is Director of Education at Maths-Whizz, a leading virtual tutoring platform, and regularly lectures on improving accessibility in maths education.

Earth Shapers

How Humans Mastered Geography and Remade the World

Maxim Samson

How we harnessed the geographical landscape and wrote ourselves onto our surroundings

Filled with real and imaginary features like mountains and meridians, rivers and borders, geography can seem, sometimes literally, set in stone. But over time, we have become experts at reshaping our surroundings.

From the Qhapaq Ñan, South America's 'Great Road', to the Panama Canal; from Mozambique's railways to Korea's sacred Baekdu-daegan mountain range, Samson explores how we mould the world around us, etching our needs onto the natural landscape. In doing so, we change the very course of history.

An immense work of cultural geography touching on ecology, sociology, history and politics, Earth Shapers argues that, far from being prisoners of geography, we are instead fundamental and intrinsic to it.

Augustine the African

Catherine Conybeare

A groundbreaking reassessment of one of Christianity's foundational thinkers from an award-winning classicist

Augustine of Hippo is one of the world's most influential theologians, an early Christian writer whose work shaped the course of Western philosophy. Born in Numidia in 354 CE, Augustine's African identity has long been painfully denied. But it was foundational to his thinking and faith. Drawing on original sources and the Augustinian texts themselves, world-renowned scholar Catherine Conybeare traces Augustine's travels from North Africa to the European continent and back again, placing his African origins firmly at the centre of his story.

A tale of exile, faith and identity, Augustine the African upends conventional knowledge about one of Christianity's most celebrated saints, and recentres Africa as the locus of early Catholic intellectual activity – with Europe on the periphery.

Catherine Conybeare is a professor of Greek, Latin, Classical Studies and Humanities at Bryn Mawr College. She has been the recipient of numerous awards and fellowships, including from the Guggenheim Foundation. She lives in Pennsylvania.

Into the Dream Lab

The New Science of Dreams and Nightmares

Michelle Carr

A guide to the science of dreaming – and its astonishing impact on our waking lives

Dreams mostly slip away when we wake, their remnants jumbled and only half-recalled. Some leave behind a sensation of surreality or even bliss, others can be traumatising.

But why do we dream at all? How do our bodies interface with our brains when we're asleep? Why do some dreams go bad? And how can we harness our sleeping minds to improve our waking lives?

Michelle Carr, a pioneering researcher in sleep medicine, unlocks the science behind the sleeping mind by exploring some of the most interesting aspects of dreaming. Drawing on her expertise in nightmares, lucid dreaming and the cutting-edge field of dream engineering, she examines how we can revolutionise our sleeping – and waking – health.

Sparta

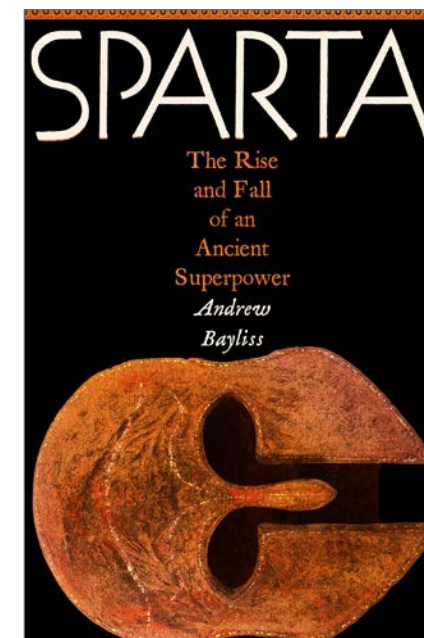

The Rise and Fall of an Ancient Superpower

Andrew Bayliss

From warrior queens to the Peloponnesian War: a majestic new history of the world's first superpower

Sparta's unyielding warriors and their steadfast resilience are famed as a model for toughness, justice and masculinity. Their torch has been carried by footballers and politicians, video game developers and philosophers alike. But who were the Spartans really? And what was the driving force behind their rise and dramatic fall?

Sparta traces the story of Ancient Greece's iconic city-state, from its humble beginnings to its meteoric ascent to become the ancient world's foremost military superpower – and its eventual decline. Andrew Bayliss uncovers the eclectic practices that set Sparta above its rivals, from harsh childhoods and double monarchy to the unique role of Spartan women. Rich, original and epic in scale, Sparta is an unmissable account of a legendary civilisation.

Andrew Bayliss is Associate Professor in Greek History at the University of Birmingham. He has taught and studied in Australia, Greece and the UK, and his published works on Ancient Greek history include Oath and State in Ancient Greece and The Spartans: A Very Short Introduction.

The World at My Feet

A Journey to the Heart of Football through Nine World Cups

Simon Kuper

The story of how football transformed the world, from prize-winning, bestselling superfan Simon Kuper

The World Cup is the biggest sporting competition on Earth: a spectacle watched by billions and a chance for celebrated footballers to win international glory. But today, the four-yearly tournaments are often overshadowed by multinational buyouts, dubious ethics and questionable aims. So what does the new era of football tell us about the globalised world?

Acclaimed football writer and podcaster Simon Kuper journeys to the heart of football via the nine tournaments he's witnessed first-hand. From half-empty stands at Italia 1990 to French triumph at home in 1998, from South Africa's national dream in 2010 to the controversy that marred Qatar in 2022, he offers a witty, informed and passionate view on the sport's greatest event.

How to Build a Haunted House

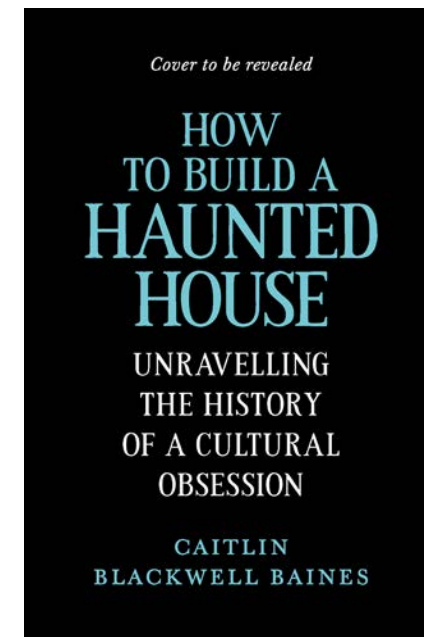

Unravelling the History of a Cultural Obsession

Caitlin Blackwell Baines

A grand tour of the haunted house through art, architecture, ghost stories and more

What makes a house haunted? Why do some buildings have particularly creepy reputations, while others leave us unmoved? Barring the possibility of a looming afterlife, what are the features, contexts and histories that lend a building the dreaded identity of haunted house?

How to Build a Haunted House tours the world's most famously spine-chilling structures in search of answers. From medieval Scotland to Enlightenment-era London, Victorian suburbs to pre-Civil War Louisiana, Blackwell Baines explores that specific set of ingredients that captures our imaginations and contributes to our collective understanding of the eternally eerie. After all, whether staunch sceptic or paranormal enthusiast, we all know a haunted house when we see one.

Caitlin Blackwell Baines is a historian of Gothic art and architecture. Born in Toronto, she studied at the Courtauld Institute and the University of York. She worked as a curator at Mount Stuart, a late Victorian Gothic Revival palace, before relocating to a thankfully un-haunted house in East Sussex.

We Survived the Night

Julian Brave NoiseCat

An unforgettable father-son story and portrait of Indigenous North America, announcing a major new talent

As an infant, Julian Brave NoiseCat's father was found abandoned in a dumpster. Against all odds, he survived and made it out of his impoverished reservation only to abandon his own son. As a young man, NoiseCat embarks on a powerful journey into his family's past and his people's present.

This dazzling blend of history and mythology, memoir and reportage unravels old stories and braids together new ones. NoiseCat grapples with the erasure of North America's First Peoples and the trauma that cascades across generations, and illuminates the vital Indigenous cultural, environmental and political movements that are reshaping the future. Virtuoso, compelling and deeply moving, this is at once an intensely personal journey and a searing portrait of Indigenous survival, love and resurgence.

Julian Brave NoiseCat is a writer and filmmaker whose award-winning writing has appeared in The New York Times, Washington Post and New Yorker, among others. In 2021 he was named on the TIME100 Next list. His critically acclaimed documentary, Sugarcane, premiered at the 2024 Sundance Film Festival.

Wisdom Takes Work

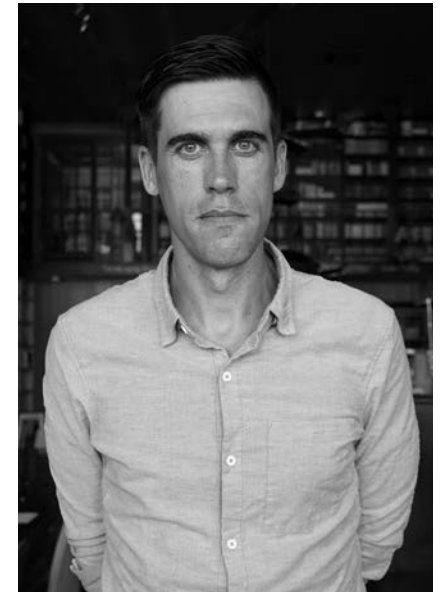

Living the Examined Life

Ryan Holiday

The final title in a series that has sold over 1 million copies worldwide: the essential, hard-won virtue of wisdom

Wisdom depends on curiosity. It demands humility. It requires a willingness to learn from the past in order to overcome the obstacles of the present – and we need it now more than ever.

In this final instalment of his bestselling Stoic Virtues series, Ryan Holiday reveals a method of self-education that can be honed throughout our lives. Drawing on stories of the Stoics, the Buddha and modern greats from Abraham Lincoln to Joan Didion, he shows how to cultivate wisdom through reading, contemplation and discernment. He teaches us how to think critically and listen intently, and how to escape the traps of tribalism, certainty and self-righteousness. All other virtues depend on wisdom. It takes work. But it's worth it.

Ryan Holiday is one of the world's bestselling living philosophers. His books, including The Obstacle Is the Way and The Daily Stoic, have spent over 300 weeks on the bestseller charts, appeared in over forty languages and sold over 6 million copies. His bookshop, The Painted Porch, sits on historic Main Street in Bastrop, Texas.

Advance Britannia

The Monumental Story of the Second World War: 1942-1945

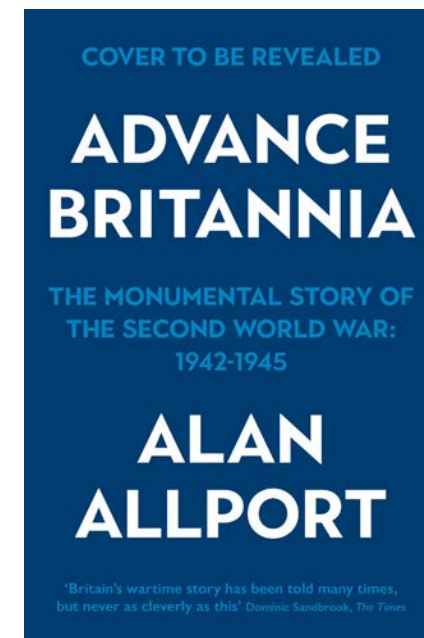

Alan Allport

A sweeping reassessment of how the Second World War was won, by the acclaimed author of Britain at Bay

By 1942, Churchill faced a vastly different war from the one he'd inherited from Neville Chamberlain. Britain was no longer alone: the Soviets were now an unlikely ally in the East, and Pearl Harbor had finally propelled America into action. Yet the scale of the violence remained unchanged. On average, seven British men, women and children were killed every hour of the Second World War. The country would never be the same again.

Advance Britannia reveals the war as it was lived – from the battlefields to the air-raid shelters, in the War Ministry and on the Normandy beaches. Blending social history with dramatic storytelling, Alan Allport gives a commanding new account of the war that reshaped the world.

Alan Allport is Assistant Professor in the Department of History at Syracuse University. He is the author of Browned Off and Bloody-Minded: The British Soldier Goes to War, 1939-1945, Demobbed: Coming Home After the Second World War and Britain at Bay, a Times Book of the Year in 2020.

Crick

A Mind in Motion – from DNA to the Brain

Matthew Cobb

The first major biography of Francis Crick, by the Baillie Gifford-shortlisted author of The Idea of the Brain

Francis Crick was a restless, relentless thinker, as fascinated by Beat poetry and psychedelics as by the genetic meaning of life and the inner workings of the brain. Yet for all his drive, he thrived on collaboration: with Jim Watson on DNA, with artists in Cambridge and California, and with his wife Odile, who drew the figure of the double helix that illuminated his most famous discovery. It was his debates and conflicts with these collaborators that powered this questing mind in motion.

Meticulously researched and shot through with insight and electrifying detail, Crick reveals the inner workings of the twentieth-century genius who changed our view of life for ever.

SERPENT'S TAIL

The Course of the Heart

With an introduction by Julia Armfield

M. John Harrison

The strange edges of reality are explored in M. John Harrison's extraordinary, genre-bending cult classic

On a hot May night, three Cambridge students carry out a ritualistic act that changes their lives. Decades later, none can remember what transpired; but their clouded memories bind them together. Unable to move on, Pam Stuyvesant is an epileptic haunted by strange sensual visions. Her husband Lucas believes that a dwarfish creature is stalking him, and invents histories to soothe Pam's fears. The narrator is seemingly the participant least affected by the ritual: he is haunted by the smell of roses, and his guilt.

Strange, dreamlike and moving, The Course of the Heart is the cult-classic novel by award-winning and highly acclaimed author M. John Harrison.

Why We Eat the Way We Eat Now

Ruby Tandoh

The star food writer explores how our tastes have been formed and how they shape our lives

Over the past century our tastes have been transformed, pulled into supermarket aisles and seduced by Michelin stars, transfixed by MasterChefs and shaped by food fads. How did food, once an important yet contained part of life, come to dominate our desires? And why are we drawn to the foods we hunger for today?

From the rise of supermarkets and the golden age of ice cream innovation (including the Viennetta with its sultry waves) to the unlikely adoption of bubble tea and the advent of Instagram influencers, Ruby Tandoh's curious and startlingly original exploration leads her to question – as we surely will, too – where our tastes come from, how they are formed and how much they are our own.

Ruby Tandoh has written for the New Yorker, Guardian, Vittles and Vice. A finalist on the 2013 Great British Bake Off, she has published Eat Up, about the pleasures of eating, as well as three cookery books: Crumb, Flavour and Cook As You Are.

The Wolf of Whindale

Jacob Kerr

A folk Gothic tale of magic, cults and werewolves – for fans of Paul Kingsnorth, Andrew Michael Hurley and Alan Garner

1845, Northalbion. Terror spreads through a small mining town as bodies turn up mauled by the mythical Wolf of Whindale. Caleb, a miner with a sceptical nature, suspects opportunistic murders disguised as the acts of a beast. When he is banished by workmates and family for crossing the picket line, he ends up working for wealthy pit owner Mr Siskin, tasked with finding a centuries-old magical artefact.

Sensing danger, Caleb must rely on his wits and his memory to make it back unscathed. But there is a bloodthirsty killer on the loose, whether man, wolf or something else entirely. A superb adventure in folk horror, The Wolf of Whindale is laced with greed, faith and myth that seemingly has the power to warp reality.

Jacob Kerr is the author of The Green Man of Eshwood Hall. His writing is inspired by the North East of England, where he was born. After teaching English as a foreign language for many years, he now lives in Cumbria.

The Ferryman and His Wife

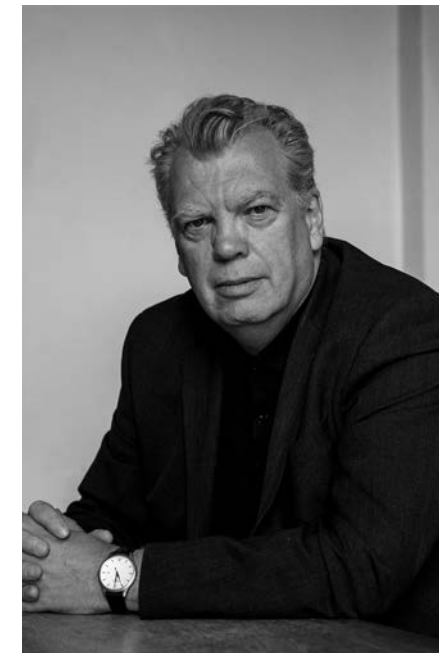

Frode Grytten

Translated by Alison McCullough

A captivating novel of love, loss and a life well lived for readers of Per Petterson or The Travelling Cat Chronicles

On the final day of his life, Nils Vik takes his boat out for the last time. Out on the fjord, he seems to be somewhere in between life and death already – here is his old dog, Luna, and here are some passengers, who are all dead, too. These are the people he ferried over the years, and they board the ferry as they were when he knew them. As he talks to old friends and customers, he remembers the fullness of his life, the daughters he will leave behind, the loving marriage he misses. His wife died some time ago and, approaching the end of his journey, Nils' expectation grows: will he be reunited with her, too?

Beautifully wrought and emotionally rewarding, The Ferryman and His Wife is an exquisite meditation on grief and love.

Frode Grytten is a Norwegian writer and journalist. He is the author of the prize-winning novels Beehive Song and The Ferryman and His Wife, as well as several short-story collections and two children's books.

The third and fourth novels in the celebrated Hal Challis series, from Australia's King of Crime

Snapshot

Winter is closing in on the Mornington Peninsula and the coastal community of Waterloo is looking for ways to keep warm. But things start to heat up for Detective Inspector Hal Challis when Janine McQuarrie is shot in a quiet country lane while her terrified daughter watches from the car.

As the compromising details of the McQuarries' personal lives come to light, Challis and Detective Sergeant Ellen Destry are faced with another complication: the victim's father-in-law – bureaucrat, golfer and their Superintendent. It seems everyone has something to hide this winter. Can the truth be uncovered before the killer strikes again?

Chain of Evidence

Ten-year-old Katie Blasko is missing. DS Ellen Destry, alert to rumours of a child abuse ring operating on the Mornington Peninsula, is thinking abduction. But her colleagues are thinking bad family, truancy – and her boss is only thinking about the media. And everyone, including Destry, is wondering whether she's good enough to handle this case without Detective Inspector Hal Challis.

But Challis is miles away, summoned to his childhood home in the outback, and when the body of his missing brother-in-law is found in suspicious circumstances, he has his own investigation to pursue. And without each other to rely on, both Challis and Destry are worried that they're running out of time . . .

The Dead Husband Cookbook

Danielle Valentine

The new gripping thriller from Danielle Valentine, author of Delicate Condition, the inspiration for American Horror Story: Delicate

Maria Capello is a celebrity chef like no other. But once she was just the timid wife of famous chef Damien Capello, only stepping into the spotlight after his mysterious disappearance. An event she's never spoken about publicly, until she decides to publish her memoirs.

Why is Maria finally breaking her silence? And why does she insist that her memoirs are edited by Thea Woods? Thea has never met Maria, plus a recent industry scandal has left her job in jeopardy. So when she's invited to Maria's remote farm to work on the manuscript, Thea has no choice but to agree to her strange demands. Maybe she'll uncover whether the rumours are true: did Maria kill Damien? And what is the legendary 'secret ingredient' . . . ?

Danielle Valentine writes bestselling YA horror under the name Danielle Vega, which has been translated into dozens of languages worldwide. Her debut adult novel, Delicate Condition, was the inspiration behind the hit television series American Horror Story: Delicate. Danielle lives outside of New York City with her husband and daughter.

The Killer Question

Janice Hallett

The fifth mystery by the Sunday Times–bestselling author: a fiendishly clever story of missing persons, murder and battling pub quiz teams

Mal and Sue Eastwood were once the kindly landlords of a local village pub, The Case Is Altered. But now The Case stands empty, its windows boarded up. What could have happened to Mal and Sue? Did The Case close because it was failing? Was it because of the body pulled from the nearby river? Or perhaps it had something to do with the weekly quiz? It had always been a quiet affair, until a mysterious new team of outsiders arrived and started winning every round . . .

Only by sifting through the quiz sheets, the WhatsApps, and Mal and Sue's hidden past may the truth be revealed. Someone's not playing fair, so get the drinks in and see if you can get a perfect score.

Nowhere Burning

Catriona Ward

The stunning new literary thriller from the bestselling author of The Last House on Needless Street and Sundial

High in the mountains sits Nowhere, a verdant valley surrounded by walls of rock. Its last owner, legendary movie star Leaf Winham, built Nowhere House as a place to hide his crimes. Only when Nowhere House went up in flames were the thirteen graves discovered: the last resting places of young men who would never go home.

Years later, it is rumoured that Nowhere is now home to runaway children, a place where adults cannot enter. Drawn by this promise, fourteen-year-old Riley pulls her younger brother Oliver from his bed in the middle of the night, hoping to find a new family. But something dark lives in Nowhere House, something that asks a terrible price for sanctuary . . .

Catriona Ward is the author of six novels, including Rawblood, Little Eve and the bestselling The Last House on Needless Street, which all won the August Derleth Award. She was shortlisted again for her fourth novel, Sundial. Her fifth novel, Looking Glass Sound, was shortlisted for the Fingerprint Genre-Busting Book of the Year.

Mischance Creek

Garry Disher

Hirsch returns to his rural outback beat for his fifth mystery in the award-winning Paul Hirschhausen series

It's the worst drought in a generation, and the people of Senior Constable Paul Hirschhausen's vast outback beat are suffering. Foreclosures. Failing businesses. Petty quarrels on the brink of escalation.

So when Annika Nordrum asks for help, Hirsch is relieved to feel useful. Her father's body was found at the bottom of a mineshaft six years ago, his death ruled an accident. But her mother hasn't been seen since. As Hirsch starts investigating, more questions arise: why was her father at a long-abandoned gold diggings? What happened to his missing possessions? And who found his dog wandering alone with a bloodstained collar? Tensions are high in Tiverton; can Hirsch find his answers before the town reaches breaking point?

Whisky and Scotland

A Spiritual Journey from Grain to Glass

Neil M. Gunn

A beautiful new gift edition of Neil M. Gunn's classic celebration of malt whisky and its creators

Whisky and Scotland is a witty, erudite and lyrical toast to uisge beatha, the Celtic 'water of life'. Taking readers on a journey through the Highlands of Scotland, it describes the traditional techniques whereby barley grains become an amber spirit.

Written by one of Scotland's most acclaimed early-twentieth-century novelists, Whisky and Scotland remains timely and relevant, encompassing nationalism, culture and what it means to be Scottish in its examination of the whisky tradition. A classic since its original publication in 1935, Whisky and Scotland will enlighten and entertain all who share the author's delight in a brew that recalls 'the world of hills and glens, of raging elements, of shelter, of divine ease'.

SORT OF BOOKS

Her First American

With a new introduction by Jeffery Renard Allen

Lore Segal

Hailed by The New York Times as 'coming closer than anyone to writing The Great American Novel'

It's the early 1950s. Ilka Weissnix, a newly arrived Jewish Austrian refugee, boards a train from New York hoping to find a 'real American'. In a railroad bar she meets Carter Bayoux, an urbane Black American intellectual. Although twice her age and in the grip of alcoholism, his amused worldliness thrills her.

Lore Segal described Her First American as 'her favourite child', a rendering of her own experiences in the 1950s. Her nuanced portrait of Carter Bayoux, the glimpses he offers of New York's Black cultural life and the loneliness of addiction, are drawn with vibrancy and wit. Segal illuminates from an outsider's perspective both the deep wounds of racism and a bright moment of Black American and Jewish solidarity.

Wellbeing Intelligence

Building Better Mental Health at Work

Kiran Bhatti and Thomas Roulet

An Economist Edge series guide: a new approach to mental health at work using our wellbeing intelligence (WBQ)

With workplace stress at record levels, everyone needs to understand the mental health challenges we face at work. But they can be hard to anticipate and manage, whether we're tackling our own sense of overwhelm or helping a colleague.

That matters, not just for individuals, but for organisational wellbeing too. Poor mental health is miserable for the people affected and bad for success more widely.

That's why we need to work on our wellbeing intelligence (or WBQ) by using this book's tried-and-tested first-aid kit to help assess and manage mental wellbeing as individuals, in teams and as part of wider organisational cultures. From self-care and self-assessment to implementing the right policies and support, Wellbeing Intelligence offers a practical guide to better mental wellbeing for all.

Economics: The Economist Guide

Philip Coggan

The definitive Economist guide to the world of economics

Sometimes categorised as the 'dismal science', economics is a discipline and topic that is often seen as dull or mysterious at best. But it is crucial to understanding the world of today.

From humble beginnings in Ancient Greece to today's mammoth global system, it's never been more important to know your macro from your micro and your fiscal from your monetary policy.

Bestselling author Philip Coggan lifts the veil with an entertaining, no-nonsense guide that combines an overview of the development and scope of the field with an all-new A-Z of key economics concepts and terms. Crisp, sophisticated and often surprising, this is the complete guide to what economics is – and why it matters.

Philip Coggan is an award-winning Financial Times and Economist journalist. His books include The Money Machine, The Economist Guide to Hedge Funds, the highly acclaimed More: The 10,000-Year Rise of the World Economy and Surviving the Daily Grind.

On Mysticism

The Experience of Ecstasy

Simon Critchley

A provocative and personal examination, ranging from medieval mystics to T. S. Eliot and Krautrock, from Britain's most engaging and inventive philosopher

'Philosopher Simon Critchley's painstaking attempt to explore transcendent experience provides a fascinating overview of Christianity's great outliers' Guardian

'Interesting and intelligent . . . Witty and fresh . . . A significant and courageous invitation to think again about the kinds of thinking that matter' Rowan Williams, New Statesman

A Cheesemonger's Tour de France

Ned Palmer

The Sunday Times-bestselling cheesemonger, longlisted for the André Simon Awards

'Palmer travels through France, exploring different regions, finding out why certain cheeses taste the way they do. Part quirky history lesson and part ode to the best cheeses' Good Food

'Whether it's the vibrant terroir of Provence's goat's cheese or the storied history of Roquefort, this exploration will deepen your appreciation and understanding of French cheese culture' France Today

Church Going

A Stonemason's Guide to the Churches of the British Isles

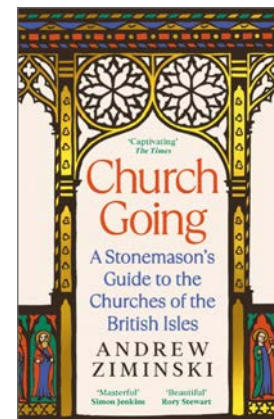

Andrew Ziminski

An insightful and charming history of Britain's churches – by an author who works within them

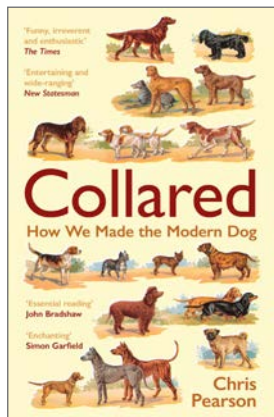

'A beautiful book – in which curiosity, hand-skill and creativity combine in a hymn to craftsmanship, and vernacular and sacred architecture. Ziminski is a rare and wonderful voice' Rory Stewart

'A lively and loving anatomy of church architecture . . . Every seat and stone has a story to tell' 'Books of the Year', The Times

'Fascinating – a masterly guide to the detail and meaning but also to the glory of Britain's heritage' Simon Jenkins

How We Made the Modern Dog

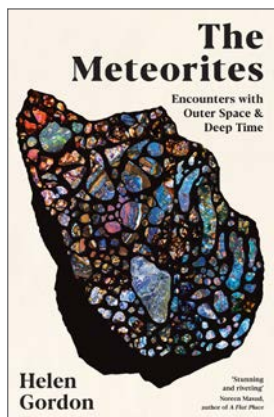

Chris Pearson

The nose-to-tail story of how we made the modern dog

‘Funny, irreverent and enthusiastic, Pearson parades his love for all things canine . . . Fascinating’ The Times

‘An enthralling account of the transformation of dogdom from blue-collar worker to human alter ego. Essential reading’ John Bradshaw

‘Thought-provoking and often surprising . . . Pearson reveals that the modern dog is not only a product of history and human meddling, but their shifting fortunes are a microcosm of the world they inhabit’ Country Life

The Meteorites

Encounters with Outer Space and Deep Time

Helen Gordon

From the acclaimed author of Notes from Deep Time

‘Gripping, deft and riveting. Gordon moves with total mastery from the human to the cosmic and back again’ Noreen Masud, author of A Flat Place

‘Astounding . . . To call this a “history” does not do justice to Helen Gordon’s ambition . . . Sheer intellectual and poetical entertainment’ Telegraph

Herscht 07769

László Krasznahorkai

A formal masterpiece: one of Europe's greatest living writers tackles our fears of environmental disaster

'Herscht 07769 is a work of genius, astonishingly well translated by Otilie Mulzet. I can only imagine the labour and dedication involved in capturing the rhythms of Krasznahorkai's clauses, their strange and captivating music' Telegraph

'Propulsive and revelatory . . . Krasznahorkai is a universalist cut loose from the shibboleths of humanism' The New York Times

Flowers from the Void

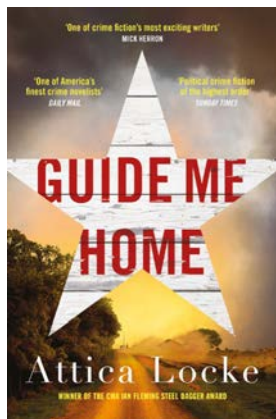

Gianni Washington

Grotesquely Gothic short stories to keep you awake all night

'An impressive debut from a very talented new writer' Guardian

'Brilliantly unsettling and unsettlingly brilliant, Flowers from the Void is the debut of a writer to watch. The macabre inventiveness of Gianni Washington's imagination is only matched by the elegance of her style. These are stories you will want to devour in a hurry but which will linger with you for a very long time indeed' Ellery Lloyd, New York Times-bestselling author of The Club

Guide Me Home

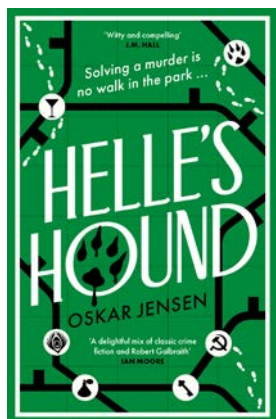

Attica Locke

The final book in the award-winning Highway 59 series from the author of Bluebird, Bluebird and Heaven, My Home

‘A searing story about race and class. Locke’s writing is exceptionally vivid, bringing to life her characters’ anxieties at a time when white supremacy feels like a growing threat’ Sunday Times

‘Lyrical, complex and deeply engaged with the simmering tensions beneath (and above) the surface of American life, this is top-quality crime fiction’ Observer

‘Written against the backdrop of Trump’s America, Guide Me Home is a dark portrait of the nation’s ever-present racial tensions by one of its finest crime writers’ Daily Mail
